• Arab Republic of Egypt – Country Brief

Egypt or the Arab Republic of Egypt spans from northeast Africa to Sinai Peninsula in the Southwest corner of Asia. On the north of Egypt, falls the Mediterranean Sea; Gaza Strip of Palestine and Israel on the northeast; Red Sea on the east and Libya on the west.

Egypt is separated in the northeast from Saudi Arabia and Jordan by the Gulf of Aqaba. Cairo being the country capital is also the largest city of Egypt. The second largest city of Egypt is Alexandria, the industrial and tourist hub of the Mediterranean coast. At present, Egypt is the 14th most populated country in the world with more than 105 million people (Source: english.ahram.org.eg) and the 3rd most populous in Africa after Nigeria and Ethiopia (Source: worldometers.info).

The official religion of Egypt is Islam and the official language is Arabic. Along the banks of the Nile River, the great majority of the Egyptian people live over an area of about 40,000 square kilometers where the only arable land is found. Most of the country's territory is constituted by the large region of Sahara desert. About 43% of the Egyptian population is spread across greater Cairo, Alexandria and other major urban areas in the Nile Delta.

- Geography

Egypt spreads over an area of 386,660 sq metres, between 22° and 32°N latitudes and 25° and 35°E longitudes. Egypt is the 30th largest country in the world. Due to the extreme arid climate of Egypt, 99% of the population is concentrated along the Nile Delta and Valley. 98% people live on 3% of the territory.

Egypt is surrounded by Israel and Gaza Strip to the east; Libya to the west; and Sudan to the south. Egypt is called a transcontinental nation as it has a land bridge, the Isthmus of Suez, between Asia and Africa. The Suez Canal, a navigable waterway, connects the Mediterranean Sea and the Indian Ocean by Red Sea.

The majority of Egypt's landscape is desert, apart from the Nile Valley. The Sahara desert and the Libyan Desert, both share their parts in Egypt. In ancient Egypt these deserts were called the 'Red Land' as they safeguarded the kingdoms of the Pharaohs from western threats. The sand dunes created by the winds in the deserts, can peak up to 30 meters of height or more than it.

Important towns and cities include the modern capital and largest city Cairo; the second largest city Alexandria; Asyut; Aswan;; El Mahalla El Kubra; Hurghada; Giza (situated here is the pyramid of Khufu); Luxor; Port Safaga; Kom Ombo; Port Said; Suez; Zagazig and Sham El Sheikh. Some of the major Oases are Farafra, Bahariya, Siwa, Dakhla and Kharga.

- Political Scenario

The Head of the State of Egypt is the President, who as per the former Egyptian Constitution, was also the Supreme Commander of the Armed Forces and Head of the Executive Authority.

The roles and powers of the President:

- The Prime Minister, other Ministers and their delegates are appointed by the President.
- Members of the People's Assembly are appointed by the President.
- He calls the People's Assembly and Shoura Councils to enter into normal session
- He enjoys the power to issue laws or object to them.
- Has the right to represent the State domestically and internationally.
- Has the right to pardon the convicts and reduce the punishment.
- He signs the international treaties and agreements.

As the chief executive body of Egypt, the Cabinet consists of:

- The Prime Minister
- Ministers
- Ministers of State - have specific tasks or agencies that they must oversee (E.g. the Ministry of State for Environmental Affairs).
- Ministers without portfolio - not in charge of particular departments (E.g. Chief of the Egyptian Intelligence Services)
- Chairmen of Departments - do not fall under the jurisdiction of any of the ministers. Hence the first category (E.g. National Council for Women) is directly answerable to the President; the second category (E.g. Chairman of Youth Authority, Sports Authority and Suez Canal Authority) is directly answerable to the Prime Minister.
- Ministers-Delegate - rarely asked or invited to attend cabinet meetings.

- Economy

The main sources of economy in Egypt are agriculture, petroleum exports, media, tourism and natural gas. More than 3 million Egyptians are working in Libya, Saudi Arabia, Europe and the Persian Gulf. Currently, the Egyptian economy is stressed due to a rapidly growing population, over dependence on the Nile, and limited arable land - leading to the overtaxing of resources.

From 2022 the economy of Egypt is undergoing a crisis. The Egyptian pound became one of the worst performing currencies. On March, inflation and core inflation reached almost 32.6% and 40% respectively.

Income Level (by per capita GNI)	Lower Middle Income
Level of Development	Developing
Economic Sources	Egypt's economy relies mainly on agriculture, media, petroleum imports, natural gas, and tourism.
Trade	Top 3 Trade Partners (2021): China, Saudi Arabia, and United States Top 3 Exported Goods (2021): Oil & Mineral Fuels, Plastics, and Electrical Machinery
